The Economic Empowerment of Roma: Conclusions, Lessons, Perspectives

Economic Empowerment of Roma
Decade of Roma Inclusion 2005-2015, Podgorica, Montenegro
17-18 June 2014

MÁRTON RÖVID
Research and policy officer, Decade of Roma Inclusion Secretariat Foundation
HIGHLIGHTS

Macroeconomic perspectives

- From the World Bank, International Labor Organization, United Nations Development Program, Governments of Montenegro and Hungary, Open Society Foundations Making the Most of EU Funds for Roma Program
- Overview of the labor market situation of Roma
- Barriers to employment
- Analysis of policies: public work, activation

Concrete cases of economic empowerment

- We received and distributed 18 cases. 11 cases were presented by implementers at the workshop.
- From low qualified jobs (waste recycling) to highly qualified jobs (Integrom)
- Concept and approach to empowerment, project planning, outputs, sustainability, lessons.
SOME LESSONS

- Governments could not tackle labor market discrimination effectively: stronger measures and institutions (Equality Bodies) are needed.
- Legalizing income generation activities: waste recycling, Sunday market, etc.
- Tackling local barriers such as access to public transport.
- Long-term and substantive commitment are required from all parties in order to build trust and to have sustainable results. Short-term pilot projects are often be expensive and non-sustainable.
- Empowering companies, state authorities, local governments so that they can change institutional culture and use the available opportunities.
PERSPECTIVES, FOLLOW UP

Decade Secretariat
- Sharing the case studies, presentations, recordings online
- Facilitating contacts

Opportunities for everyone
- Learn from established projects, meet them personally
  - Examples: Social land programs in Bulgaria, Hungary; bio-dynamic gardening in Croatia, Slovakia; Waste recycling in Serbia; Housing rehabilitation in Hungary
- Support new projects, take part, advocate
  - Examples: Roma Investment Fund, Project Finally, Youth Guarantee, Integrom